Hello,

My name is Adam Reis. I am a professional audio engineer, multi-instrumentalist, and piano tuner. I am currently in my senior year at Duquesne University's Mary S. Pappert School of Music in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

I was born and raised in Pittsburgh and received my education at the Woodland Hills School District from 2005-2018, when I graduated. Afterwards, I found a home at Duquesne University, amongst some of the greatest minds going into the audio engineering field. There, I found the perfect place to learn and advance my understanding of the craft, as well as enjoy every second of it.

I possess skills such as Professional Instrument Tuning, Perfect Pitch, Teaching, Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Premiere, Writing Skills, Microsoft Excel, Microsoft Word, Tutoring, and Dolby Atmos Renderer Proficiency. Along with that, I have proficiency in digital audio workstations such as Ableton Live 8, Vocaloid, Logic Pro X, and Samplitude. These skills have been vital to my progression as both a live sound and studio engineer, and I hope that these skills make me an important asset to any team I'm invited to be in.

I believe that I can be of great assistance to any recording studio or live venue that prioritizes the skills I have, as I am looking forward to give the best I can give in my future endeavors.

Best,

Adam Reis
